Re. Human Rights Day

SHRI JOHN F. FERNANDES (GOA): Madam, today is the International Human Rights Day. It is an important day for India because the Western powers subjugated India by colonialism. I remember of my State's condition five hundred years back when these colonial powers came to my State and slaughtered people. Thousands of people were slaughtered and the very same powers, whenever we object to NPT or CTBT, use the rod of human rights against us, the developing countries. We know what is happening in our neighbourhood, Afghanistan. The Taliban regime was supported by Pakistan and the U.S. What is happening to the women-folk there? Human rights of women and girl children
